INCINERATOR PROPOSED

Water supply, milk inspection, measles and garbage disposal were the subject of a verbal report by Dr. J. H. Wesley, M. O. H., before the town council on Monday evening.

"We have had pretty good water so far this summer, but sometimes I have noticed an odor from the hot water tap," Dr. Wesley told the councillors. The odor he blamed on the mains not being washed out sufficiently.

"We are trying to get Aurora to share with us the cost of milk inspection," Dr. Wesley said. "At the last meeting of the board of health Mr. Mathews was instructed to write seeking a definite answer from Aurora. We have a very competent inspector. He now inspects Cousins Dairy in Aurora, and all shippers to that dairy. It costs us $400. We have offered to pay $300 if they will pay $200. If they won't, we will have to give up inspection of that dairy. Perhaps then they will change their minds."

"I can't tell you the number of cases of measles. I have reports of 220 cases. But usually after the first case in a home, they don't report, although the law requires all cases to be reported. I would suppose that we had over 250 cases. There have been a lot of complaints and a good deal of dissatisfaction.

"The school teachers have been very good. They have done everything in their power. But once an epidemic gets started, you can't stop it. Several times doctors forgot to report cases for a day or two. Sometimes too, I admit, I forgot to inform the sanitary inspector. I would perhaps call him two or three times, and not get him, and then forget about it."

"The law is no good," said Mayor Dr. S. J. Boyd.

"It's been a fizzle since the start," said Councillor Frank Page 6, Col. 4

BORN IN SMALL TOWN IS ASSET OLD BOYS TOLD

No finer closing for the Old Boys' reunion could have been thought of than the mass service of worship held at the fair grounds on Sunday evening. The service was arranged by the local Protestant Ministerial Association at the request of the reunion committee.

A mass choir of all the churches under the baton of Illyd Harris, led the praise and rendered two delightful anthems. One anthem was "Day is dying," and was beautifully rendered unaccompanied. Lovely old hymns were sung, with L. K. Farr presiding at the piano. Rev. Dr. McIntyre, president of the Ministerial Association, presided.

As the singing of "Blest be the tie that binds" came over the amplifier, the choir in their robes, followed by the clergy, processed to the platform.

Sharp on the dot of 8:30 Dr. McIntyre announced the opening hymn, which was a rendering of the old hundredth. Almost a thousand voices joined in the singing. It was an inspiring scene, on a race-track on a quiet Sabbath evening. Nothing like it has ever been experienced in Newmarket before.

The New Testament lesson was read by Rev. R. R. McMath, Trinity United church, and Rev. Burton Hill of the Friends church. Rev. A. J. Patstone, St. Paul's Anglican, both offered prayers. Rev. T. M. Wesley, Cambourne United church, an old Newmarket boy, gave the address.

In a reminiscent mood he said "as a boy" he had often taken a "short cut" to school through the very grounds in which the service was being held. Speaking on the first psalm he said that the two outstanding thoughts are: "A good man is like a tree," and "A bad man is like a chaff."

One of the outstanding landmarks of Newmarket is the old elm tree on Timothy street, he went on. It has stood for many years and is full of life. The speaker remembered the old smith who worked under its shade and the radiance and brilliance of the sparks from the anvil often made it in the evening an unpainted picture.

One of the advantages of being a Newmarket boy, he said, was that of being brought up in a simple town. "It was the centre of an agricultural neighborhood. Into the making of it much sacrifice entered. The town was founded partly by officers and men of His Majesty's army, yeomen from the old land and U. E. Loyalists. No other town was more nobly founded. Small were their beginnings but they had great hearts. We are their heirs."

The speaker thought recognition ought to be made of some of Newmarket's heroes. He mentioned Geo. Rose, Wm. Rennie, Miss Rose and Miss Kelly of the public school, Messrs. A. F. Coombes and Ernest Dickson of the high school. He said it was doubtful, too, if ever the influence of the following churchmen would die: Rev. Mr. Brown of the Presbyterian church, Rev. S. P. Rose of the Methodist church, Canon Ramsay of the Anglican, and Father Whitney of the Roman Catholic church.

"The departed are the real soil in which we find our roots," he said. "The dream they had should be fulfilled in us. One greatness of common-place people is that they refuse to live common-place. It can be said of the founders of Newmarket, and of the Hebrews of old, 'they died in the faith.' To be worthy of them, we too, should be rooted and grounded in God."

The speaker spoke words of appreciation for the reunion and the inspiration it had been. As the sun hid behind the horizon, leaving a lovely grey sky, with silence enveloping everything but for the strains of the piano, a thousand voices sang out that grand old hymn, "God be with you till we meet again." Rev. A. P. Mahoney, St. Mark's, Toronto, pronounced the benediction and so the old boys' reunion entered into history.

MARGARET GILLARD IS WED AT ST. MARK'S

A pretty wedding took place on July 1 at 1 p.m. at the Church of St. Mark, Toronto, when Margaret Ellen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gillard of Newmarket was united in marriage to Donald James, only son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Bowen, Toronto. Rev. Mr. Wakeland officiated.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was gowned in peach organdy with white accessories and wore a shoulder corsage of deep pink roses and baby breath. She was attended by her sister, Miss Marian Gillard, gowned in blue sheer with white accessories and wearing a shoulder corsage of tallian roses and baby breath. The groom was attended by Mr. Ormer Bourdon. The couple left for London, Ont., on a short honeymoon. On their return they will live at 17 Sommers Ave., Toronto.

VETERANS TAKE CHARGE OF OLD BOYS' REUNION

Saturday was veterans' day at the old boys' reunion. The afternoon began with an impressive parade which included Newmarket veterans, headed by Navy Veteran Alf. Smith and Army Veteran S. J. Brice, North York township veterans headed by A. W. Scully, North York township women's auxiliary, Imperial women war veterans, and many veterans of the old 220th and 127th battalions raised in York county. The two Newmarket bands took part in the impressive and smart parade. Forming at the Stuart Scott school grounds the veterans marched to the fair grounds where Col. F. F. Clarke, D. S. O. (top left), who was at one time in command of the 127th, and Capt. Aubrey Davis (top centre) took the salute. The marshal of the parade was Major C. M. Howarth (top right), who reduced from lieutenant to private in the 220th in order to get overseas with the crowd. Among the notables present were Major J. C. Boylen, Montreal, of the 127th, who was born on a York county farm, and C. W. Fields, the original sergeant-major of the 127th, later with the 220th.

GIRLS CHASED BY BOYS WITH PIONEERS' RIBS

"In the old days we had to be here sharp on time," Walter C. Cain, a native son of Newmarket, now deputy-minister of lands and forests for the province of Ontario, told a group of old boys and girls at St. John's separate school Saturday forenoon.

Mr. Cain called the roll, recalled lacrosse days, chided R. E. Manning, who was present, with harboring truants in his blacksmith shop in the old days, tried the class out with some mental arithmetic, had recitations from the most erring of the old boys and girls, and finally presented a cane to Mr. Manning from "his old pupils of the separate school."

Miss Margaret Kelman, who as an earlier teacher than Mr. Cain occupied a place of honor with him, presented a bouquet of roses to Mr. Manning for Mrs. Manning, who was not present.

"It is too much, I am not worthy of it," said Mr. Manning. Mr. Cain taught for two years in the school. "The name of Newmarket is very dear to me," he said. "It was on this street that I was privileged to be born. It was on this street that I was christened. It was on this street that my parents were married. From the church they moved, in a pedestrian sort of way, to a house on this street and lived there for 60 years. And they were carried out of that house. And the name of that street is Ontario. Ten thousand times a year, when I sign my name under that word Ontario, I am reminded of this town and these circumstances."

"I have journeyed up through Hudson's Bay, and down through the Atlantic and Indian oceans, and there was scarcely a place that I visited but that some circumstance reminded me of Newmarket, which is in my golden memory."

Mr. Cain recalled bright answers given to him when he was teaching in Newmarket. A youngster, asked to use the name "Pontius Pilate" in a sentence, wrote: "He punches Pilate in the stomach." Another said that

220TH AND 127TH SPLIT UP HONORS

Newmarket Veterans' Association officers Alf. Smith and S. J. Brice expressed thanks this week to all members of the 127th and 220th battalions for their splendid spirit of co-operation during the reunion.

They expressed thanks to Newmarket, Newtonbrook, Willowdale and Aurora veterans for their attendance, Smith Bros. for the use of stoves, and Jack Morrill for making tea for the veterans (245 gallons on Saturday and ten gallons on Sunday after the parade). They also thanked Capt. Aubrey Davis for the prizes for the sports.

Winners in the sports were: 6 years and under, Ronald Rolland, Toronto, Ronald Pullen, Toronto, Fred Miller, Toronto, Jack Thompson, Toronto, Jack Shropshire, Newmarket, Shirley Sutton, Aurora, Velma Durie, Toronto, Helen Lambert, Toronto, Mary Wakefield, Toronto, Joan Mitchell, Newmarket, Margaret Faux, Toronto.

OLD SOLDIERS DEDICATE PLOT AS GOD'S ACRE

Impressive was the Decoration Day service under the trees at Newmarket cemetery on Sunday afternoon. Equally moving was the dedication service which followed at the Veterans' plot to the west of the chapel. Both events took place as part of the reunion celebration.

Rev. Burton Hill of the Friends church opened the service with a scripture reading, followed by prayer by Rev. A. J. Patstone of St. Paul's Anglican church.

"I wish to welcome you one and all," declared Mayor Dr. S. J. Boyd.

W. L. Bosworth, president of Newmarket Cemetery Company, spoke briefly. "It is just 60 years ago this summer since the first burial took place in this cemetery, and some stern letters concerning the condition of some of the stones are going to be mailed out," he said. "If you receive one of these letters, remember that it is just to save some child from being badly hurt. If anybody wishes to endow a plot, any member of the board will be glad to explain the endowment plan."

"We take God for granted, we use Him when we need Him and cast Him aside like a squeezed lemon," said Rev. A. Patrick Mahoney, Toronto, chaplain to the Black Watch Association, in the principal address.

"You were eager to see your king, you almost fell on your faces in adoration of your queen, what about the King of Kings?" he asked.

"In giving a plot for a last resting-place for veterans who perhaps would have no other

MARY IRENE KEFFER IS CHARMING BRIDE

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Keffer of Glenville was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Saturday when their daughter, Mary Irene, became the bride of Orval Wallace Parker, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Parker of Maxwell, Ont.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. J. Burton of Kettleby, in the presence of about 60 guests.

Mrs. George Dutton, sister of the bride, played the wedding march and while the register was being signed, Miss Mary Wright of Toronto sang, "I love you truly."

The bride was dressed in a gown of dusk pink sheer with white accessories and in her hair wore a coronet of orange blossoms and rose buds. She carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses and orange blossoms. Her only ornament was a pendant, a gift of the groom.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Laurene Keffer, who wore a dress of Queen Elizabeth blue and carried pink roses and delphinium.

Little Miss Reta Dutton, niece of the bride, was flower girl and wore a yellow organdy dress and carried a bouquet of garden flowers.

The groom was attended by Mr. James Allen, also of Glenville.

Rev. E. J. Sanderson, of Brown Summit, North Carolina, a former Newmarket boy, was the guest preacher at the Christian Congregational church on Sunday morning.

The horse-shoe pitching contest was won by 127th battalion. The baseball was won by the 220th.

Helen Lambert, Ronald Pullen and Jack Thompson are asked to get in touch with S. J. Brice, secretary, Newmarket Veterans, to receive their prizes.

During the decoration day ceremonies the Newmarket veterans laid a wreath on the grave of the late Miss Nellie Forsyth.

HERE

6,000 ATTEND SATURDAY

The old boys' reunion was an undoubted success, both in the estimation of the visitors, and according to the financial check-up which is now taking place.

The visitors, who came from near and far, were profuse in their thanks for the pleasant time they enjoyed.

H. E. Lambert, treasurer, would not say definitely as yet, but believes that returns will be sufficient to take care of all liabilities. This will include the cost of the dance floor, at over $500, but there may not be sufficient to return $200 advanced by the town. The dance on Saturday night netted only $85.

After two rainy nights, gate receipts on Saturday totalled $1,080. With children and veterans' and their families admitted free, attendance on Saturday is estimated at 6,000.

One of the nicest incidents of the reunion was a letter received by H. E. Lambert, reunion committee treasurer, today, enclosing a cheque for $10 from V. Martin, president of the Walker Press Ltd., Paris. Mr. Martin, a former Newmarket, sent this gift to help out after the two poor nights.

"I wish to thank all citizens

Richmond Hill Scaled By Newmarket By 9-7 Score

THRILLS, CHILLS AND ORATORY MARK INTERESTING GAME

BY JACK PEPIATT

In the best game of the season to date for thrills, chills and soap-box oratory, the Redmen vanquished a stubborn Richmond Hill crew by a 9-7 count last night.

Besides that, Joe Spillette won a two dollar bet. The game played Tuesday was rained out before the seventh and had to be decided last night.

Richmond Hill collected five runs the first two innings with no sign of a reply from Newmarket. A battery switch then put Alex. Webster on the mound in place of Red Mitchell, a Mount Albert product, and brought the Indians into the game with a bang. In the third they solved Bennett's deceptive change of pace and promptly proceeded to drive him from the box.

Webster got on first by a Hill error and was batted in by Neufeld. Hilton then knocked out a three-bagger, sending Neufeld across the plate. Then in a procession, Hilton, Peters and Cain scored to even the count. Newmarket added three more points in the fifth and one in the seventh.

St. John's Catholic church was the scene of an impressive ceremony on Sunday afternoon at 2:30. A beautiful new shrine, dedicated in honor of the Blessed Virgin Mary, was solemnly blessed by the pastor, Rev. Dr. Muckle, in the presence of a large congregation, many of whom were old boys and girls of Newmarket.

After thanking all who helped make the shrine possible, especially Francis Haxby, the artist who painted the background, Arthur Peppiatt, Sr., who constructed the canopy, Fred Hodgins, and A. V. Higginson who designed it, Dr. Muckle preached a fitting sermon on "the devotion and love which we should have for the Blessed Mother of our Saviour."

Hymns in honor of the "Blessed Virgin" were sung by the congregation and the ceremonies were brought to a close with "The Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament."

Members of the parish societies, including the Boy Scouts and Girl Guides, lined up in procession with other members of the congregation and walked to the

At the end of the seventh argument started as to whether the game should go nine innings or be called a no-contest. Joe Spillette laid down two smacker-ones, to say that since the game was begun after seven thirty and before eight o'clock only seven innings were necessary, and was promptly covered.

The two managers then decided to continue the game and afterwards retire to Joe's store and consult a rule book. To cap the proceedings the umpire called the game off on account of darkness in the Redmen's part of the eighth after Gibeby had homered.

Joe won his wager and Newmarket a well-earned victory. Hilton was the star for the locals and saved them from grief time and again by his brilliant defence work. Webster showed that his old right arm still has zip in it. Flame-thatched Mitchell should develop into a good mound artist with some practice.

This game will give the locals confidence in future struggles with the Hill down that play-off trail.

MEMORIAL WINDOW UNVEILED TO TWO OUTSTANDING CITIZENS

A fitting ceremony for the old boys' reunion Sunday was the unveiling of a beautiful stained glass window in memory of Florence Amy Bray and Thomas Jaffray Robertson in St. Paul's church of England.

The window was presented by their daughters, Misses Edith and Helen Robertson, and is placed in the nave on the south side of the church. Sir William Mulock, a life-long friend of the late Mr. Robertson, unveiled the window, and Rev. A. J. Patstone, the rector, dedicated it.

The ceremony took place in the course of the morning service. Rev. Wm. Hills, B. A., L. Th., of St. Paul's church, Toronto, occupied the pulpit and preached on the text: "I am the way, the truth and the life." That, he said, was the strongest assertion ever made by a human being.

A considerable number of visitors were present. The hymns sung were old hymns used in the church for over a century.

The memorial window depicts the Lord's appearance to Mary on the resurrection morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Robertson were outstanding citizens of Newmarket. Mrs. Robertson died in March, 1935, after a life of great usefulness in the church and community. She was president of the St. Paul's ladies' aid for

BACK-TO-THE-LAND NONSENSE

Back-to-the-land plans will not solve Canada's economic problems, H. H. Hannam, secretary of the United Farmers of Ontario and president of the Ontario Chamber of Agriculture, told a Toronto civic farm placement committee last Friday. Mr. Hannam said that farmers would oppose the use of public funds to bonus farm settlers at a time when more foodstuffs are being produced than the market can absorb at reasonable prices. A smaller proportion of the total population is ever necessary to produce the country's foodstuffs and to supply Canada's foreign markets. Alexander MacLaren, Ontario department of labor, expressed the opinion that there are too many people on Canada's farms now. There is a lot of work to do on every farm, he said, if the farmer could pay for it, but unfortunately he can't. He therefore suggested a study of farm prices. We don't believe that they will bear study.

Open the Gates

Canada could support 50,000,000 people, Mr. Hannam thought. He said that farmers would support an immigration policy which would bring in skilled labor and technical experts and, presumably, a reasonable proportion of agriculturalists. We agree, although there is no need at all for additional farmers. Canada is missing a wonderful opportunity today to welcome skilled, talented, cultured and, in many instances, moneyed refugees from Germany and Czechoslovakia. As long as ten million people try to keep this vast land to themselves, they will be the subject of envy and criticism. If we would share what we have with those who have not, we would find ourselves richer than before.

Henry Ford's Tractor

Frankly, we don't know what to make of Henry Ford and his new tractor which he says will "revolutionize agriculture." Mr. Ford is reported as aiming at the reduction of the farmer's toil rather than the increase of production, but he can't control his invention, once he sets it loose, if it will do what he says it will do (which we must doubt). Says Mr. Ford: "This will bring a much-needed return to the land by the younger generation, heretofore discouraged by the volume of work and the small financial return from the agricultural pursuits." How can those returns be increased by the use of such a tractor without arbitrary limitation of production?

IT'S DEBATABLE

Supporting a Newmarket application for a beer license for two days during the old boys' reunion, the suggestion was that a legal outlet for beer would stop illegal outlets. It doesn't necessarily work out that way. A dispatch from Montreal this week estimates Montreal's "blind pigs" at 3,000, yet in Montreal beer is not only sold in hotels, restaurants and taverns, but also in every grocery store. If the choice were just between legal outlets and illegal outlets, no doubt more people would favor legal outlets, but there is just as much evidence that the legal outlets increase the illegal outlets as there is for the opposite viewpoint. If the choice were just between legal outlets and illegal outlets, while some would favor, as already suggested, the legal outlets, most so-called "temperance people" would favor the illegal outlets in the belief that they would not be able to sell nearly as much liquor as the legal outlets could and would.

A Homely Illustration

For instance, it seems that a private truck drove into the fair grounds on Saturday with a load of beer, and sold it for 20 cents a bottle. The beer was consumed clandestinely. It is no exaggeration to say that there would have been ten or 20 times as much beer consumed if there had been a legally established canteen at the fair grounds on Saturday. There would have been a good deal of drunkenness if there had been a canteen, whereas, actually, there was no indication at all of excesses. And if the police had carried out their duties conscientiously, and had not chosen to wink at this breach of the law, there need have been no liquor at all sold at the fair grounds on Saturday. This is a matter into which the county and town police committees could well make inquiry.

A NEW STREET FOR NEXT REUNION

The old boys' reunion certainly demonstrated the need for a new wide Main St. Traffic jam succeeded traffic jam on Friday and Saturday. Holidaying through-traffic was held up in the most annoying and discouraging way. Newmarket did not get much favorable advertising with the people who passed through here last week-end between the city and Lake Simcoe. The old boys must have been surprised to see how narrow our streets are. Not only Main St. but many other pavements are antiquated and hopelessly narrow.

Where's the Gibson Survey?

But let's do something about Main St. first. A couple of years ago, at the time of the discussion over the erection of the Bank of Toronto building, the town council passed a resolution to the effect that a by-law would be introduced setting new lines for Main St. in front of which no new fronts could be erected. Before the council could pass the by-law it needed more definite information about present lines, and instructed Mr. Gibson, the surveyor, to make a survey of Main St. at his convenience. The survey has never been forthcoming. Why shouldn't we tackle this problem before it becomes still more difficult?

The Common Round

INTO THE UNKNOWN

By Isabel Inglis Colville

When summer comes we turn into explorers.

We can't go to the north pole, to the world's fair or across the continent, but we CAN seek adventure along the highways and byways near home.

Not having been brought up in this locality, lots of the country is as much a sealed book to us as darkest Africa was to Livingstone when he set out to explore a continent. Said my better half to me the other day as we prepared for a drive—"North, south, east or west—which?"

"West," said I, at a venture, and we were off, and presently crossed Yonge Street and drove quietly along a country road. On one side of us rose high hills and the road was so narrow that to meet a car was a somewhat disconcerting experience, but the air was delightful—warm and perfumed with the scent of new mown hay, and suddenly we came to the top of a hill.

What a prospect—we could see miles north, south and west, through air so clear that it seemed to magnify the objects looked at.

Down the hill we clattered and came to a road running north and south which looked splendid after the one over which we had jolted. "Do you know where you are?" asked mother.

"Haven't the faintest idea," said my spouse, "but what's the odds—we'll come out some place," he added philosophically.

So we drove quietly southward, feeling the motion restful after the very uncertain pathway we had driven previously.

Then—"What's that?" I asked wonderingly as we came in sight of a little settlement, so unlike the large farm houses and big barns.

somewhat widely spaced, that are commonest to our countryside.

For tiny houses were clustered together as if for company. A little building—a school or church, surmounted by a cross, dominated the scene, and a tiny graveyard with a large cross and a small one lay near.

We met young people walking along the road—quite a number—I do not know whether they belonged to this little settlement or not—I do not know where else they could have come from—they looked bright and happy, but about the little cluster of tiny dwellings, there was an air of sadness, of defeatism (is that a word?) which induced a certain melancholy in the onlooker.

We wondered if this were the place where Father—I forget his name—brought some of his unemployed parishioners, to try and found a little self-supporting colony. It seemed alien and sad as if it had not yet found the solution of its problems.

So we left it, with its quiet and somehow forlorn air, but dominated by the symbol of salvation, and drove on toward the pretty little village of King City and Maple.

I had always wanted to see the place which boasted the high sounding name, having read something of its history, and now I had accomplished my pilgrimage and was satisfied.

They are only vest pocket adventures—these drives along our country roads in June-time—some-thing like the "four of my room," but they often bring to light some oddity or delightful surprise, and they serve to show us new beauties, and sometimes, alas! new devastation, in this Ontario of ours.

MERRY CHICKADEE MAKES A NEW FRIEND

BY RUTH DINGMAN HEBB

"I declare, I don't see how Jenny Wren has time to sing so much," said Hattie Nuthatch to Mrs. Phoebe. "She seems frightfully busy taking food to her babies in their nest—they clamor for it incessantly. Just listen to them! Yet she still seems to have time to sing as much as ever."

"I asked her about that once," said Mrs. Phoebe, with a laugh. "She said that if she wasn't singing she wouldn't know what to do with herself. And besides, if she didn't sing, how was she to expect her children to learn how to sing?"

"There goes a tiny Ruby-throated Hummingbird," said Hattie. "They certainly have a wonderful time in the flower gardens these days."

"Hello girls!" said another voice just then, as Merry Chickadee alighted rather breathlessly beside them. "I've just seen a very unusual bird."

"How delightful!" said the Phoebe. "Were you talking to it personally, or did you just see it from a distance?"

"Oh, I was talking to it," explained Merry. "We had a wonderful chat. I was quite thrilled."

"Well, now that we know this much, you might as well tell us who it was you saw," said the Nuthatch lady crisply.

"I was over there, two or three fields away from here," the Chickadee told them, "on the edge of that high, upland field of oats, when I saw quite a large, brownish-buff bird, with a light speckled breast, that I didn't know."

"He was standing on a fence post, giving a clear, loud, whistling call," she went on. "He was poised on the post, with his wings upraised, and he really looked quite picturesque. This trick of stretching his wings high over his back seems to be quite a habit. His wing feathers were marked with contrasting dark and white—and his bill was about as long as his head. And I could see by looking at his long legs that he was a wader. He was about the size of the Lesser Yellowlegs, but his legs weren't yellow. Can either of you guess who it was?"

"I haven't the foggiest idea," said Hattie Nuthatch promptly. "Would it be some kind of a Plover or Sandpiper?" suggested the Phoebe thoughtfully.

"It certainly would," said Merry approvingly, "but what kind?"

"Oh, I don't know," said the Phoebe. "It doesn't sound like anyone I know. I give up."

"Well, it was a Bartramian Sandpiper or Upland Plover," announced Merry. "Of course, I didn't know who it was either—" so I asked, as politely as I could. "I'm sorry, but you'll have to talk a little louder, because that Wren is chipping so loudly," said Hattie. "I wonder what in the world can be the matter with her—she hasn't stopped that scolding for five or ten minutes. I'm just going over for a second to ask her."

In a moment the Nuthatch came back to the others.

"The poor soul—she was worried sick because there was a cat prowling around only a few yards away from her nest of babies," Hattie reported. "It made her quite frantic—and I don't blame her. I didn't stay myself under the circumstances."

"Well, to get back to the Upland Plover," Merry reminded them. "He was quite shy, but admitted to me that he and his mate were nesting nearby. He said that although they were strictly-speaking of the shore bird family, they liked the dry uplands and grassy meadows, not the marsh or the beach. They winter in South America."

"I asked why we didn't see more of them," she continued, "and he told me that in the past the family had nearly died out—many had been shot, and their favorite breeding places had disappeared. But now that they are protected, much of the danger of them becoming extinct has passed—although they are still quite rare in Ontario. They are more common in the west. He told me that they are very useful birds, because they eat a great many grasshoppers. But the silly part is that they start migrating in August, just when the grasshoppers are most plentiful."

"When he flew away I noticed his rapid flight, like the Spotted Sandpiper's."

"We certainly must see him sometime," said the Phoebe. "It's nice to know that we have such an unusual bird in the district."

"It's most interesting, I'm sure," agreed the Nuthatch. "And now I must get back and see what my young family is up to. I told them to be very careful while I was away for a few minutes, but dear knows what trouble they're into by now. I'm having quite a time teaching one of the youngsters to go down the tree trunk headfirst. He doesn't seem to have the proper sense of balance. Each year there seems to be one of them that finds that trick hard to learn. Johnny brused himself quite badly yesterday when he lost his grip and fell."

"Yes, I'm sure we've all been away from our families long enough," said the Phoebe. "But we're certainly glad to have heard about the Upland Plover. What did you say his other name was?"

"The Bartramian Sandpiper," Merry told her. "Good-bye for now."

"THE SHEPHERD'S SONG ABOUT HIS SHEPHERD"

A SERMON BY REV. T. T. FAICHNEY

The following is the text of a sermon delivered by the Rev. Thos. T. Faichney at the Christian Congregational church on a recent Sunday morning. Mr. Faichney has left to take up work in a church in Galt.

If a vote were taken on the passage of scripture which is best known, and most loved, I think the vote would go to the 23rd Psalm. "The Lord is my Shepherd," are among the first words our children begin to lip. Repeating this Psalm, with assurance and hope, the aged go on into God's presence. And in the meantime of life, it is this Psalm that gives us new strength and courage for the day.

"How Was It Written?" There are those who think that the writer of such a message as the 23rd Psalm must have been a man, old in years and experience. My own feeling, however, is that it was the young shepherd lad who sang this song. But would a youth speak about the "valley of the shadow?" Yes, because life, death and the eternal verities are nearer in the rich idealism of youth, when he is still "trailing clouds of glory, from God who is our home."

I think the Psalm came into being this way: The brothers of David, the young shepherd of Bethlehem, were with King Saul, fighting the battles of God and of Israel. Time and again, David had gone down to the camp and with sweet song he had soothed the spirit of the king. Now he is back again on Bethlehem's plains with the flocks. Day is just breaking. Away over the Dead Sea and the Plains of Moab are already visible the golden gleams of a glorious sunrise. The dew is still heavy on the grass, as the shepherd laid aside his blanket and makes his plans for the day. For in this eastern land the shepherd has to think for the sheep.

Where will he lead the flock today? For green pastures are very scarce. Then the day must be planned, so that they will come to a watering place at the end of the day. The other evening David had brought his thirsty sheep to a stream, only to find it a rushing torrent, into which the tired and thirsty sheep were afraid to venture. The young shepherd then took some big stones and made a dam. Into the "still waters" the sheep had gone and slaked their thirst. One sheep had wandered away from the flock. Well did David know that the lost sheep wandering on forbidden land was forfeit to the owner of the land. So seeking the sheep that was lost, his endeavor was "to restore its soul."

Always it is the intention of the shepherd to lead his sheep in the easy pleasant paths of righteousness. But sometimes in the hills, they have to go through valleys of darkness, where on one occasion David had been met by a lion. The comfort and strength of the sheep at such a time was the rod or club which the shepherd carried. At times on the narrow hilly paths, a tired lamb might stumble into the depths beneath. Then the staff would be reached out and save the lamb. "Thy rod and staff" were indeed a comfort.

On the plains David would find good pasture, but it was always necessary for him to keep close watch on the thickets where wild animals might be lurking. Or for holes in the ground, where a snake might be waiting to snap at the unwary sheep. The table was prepared in the presence of the enemies.

At the end of the day, there was a scene which I am told may still be witnessed in Palestine. "The Ridding of the Sheep." Leading his sheep back to the sheepfold, the shepherd became the "door of the sheep." One by one the sheep go in past him. Here is one whose head has been bruised by a sharp stone. The shepherd pours on the olive oil to soothe and to heal. "Thou anointest my head with oil." Or here is a lamb thirsty and tired, and immediately the dipper or cup is overflowing with clear refreshing water. And so ends the day's work.

The Application from Experience It was then, I think, in the morning hour, on Bethlehem's plain, there rose from the heart of the shepherd lad, "The Shepherd's song about his Shepherd." For thus he reasoned: All that I do for these helpless sheep, in watchfulness, kindness and provident care, God does for me!

"The Lord is my Shepherd I shall not want. He maketh me to lie down in green pastures; He leadeth me beside the still waters; He restoreth my soul; He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness, for His Name's sake."

Yes, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death; I will fear no evil: For Thou art with me. Thy rod and Thy staff Thou preparest a table before me, in the presence of my enemies. Thou anointest my head with oil. My cup runneth over."

If then God will do all this for me for one day, he will do it for all the days.

"Goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life." And then what? This God who has cared for me all the days of my life, whose love is stronger than death, He will not let me go at the end?

"I will dwell in the House of the Lord forever!" This Psalm is among the first evidences of belief in personal immortality we find in the Old Testament. This belief, you will observe, is not based on the findings of philosophy or science, but on what God has revealed himself to be. It was on the heels of that love revealed in Jesus, that Paul exclaimed, "Not even death can separate!" It was on the symbolism of shepherd and sheep, that our Lord said, "I give unto them eternal life: They shall never perish, neither shall any man pluck them out of my hand."

"Goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life." And when the night falls, the good Shepherd will take his sheep home to the sheepfold.

"And I will dwell in the House of the Lord forever!" There are three keynotes in this Psalm to which I would like to refer:

(1) Contentment. "The Lord is my shepherd, I shall not want." David did not have our comforts and luxuries, yet he did have a peace and contentment which we know is our need today. Our worries and anxieties are too much from our lack of provision, as from the largeness of our pampered desires. God has promised us bread and water, we want cake and coffee! We are much too concerned with the rule of gold, and too little concerned with the Golden Rule. In our effort to keep up with the Joneses we condemn ourselves to a life of misery. The largest house is not necessarily the equivalent to the happiest home. Burns' "Cottar" was happier than any king and richer by far. "Godliness with contentment is great gain."

"I will fear no Evil" (2) Courage. "I will fear no evil." Not that there will be no evil, nor sorrow; but that when evil and sorrow and suffering, aye, and death come, there will be no fear. Fear is the great devastating force which ruins men, spiritually, mentally and physically. Eliminate fear and fifty per cent of the world's ills will be gone. It does make a difference if, faced with some difficulty or adversity, you have the assurance that you are going to win out. Your morale is sustained; you fight with a confidence that could never be yours if you had no such assurance. To us such an assurance is given, "Be of good cheer, I have overcome!" I will fear no evil. Thou art with me!

"I will dwell in the House of the Lord" (3) Confidence. In this confident note, "I will dwell in the House of the Lord forever," there is the assurance of an unbroken communion. The best illustration of this confidence is a story which Ian MacLaren tells.

An old Scot while on a business trip in England, was laid low with a fatal sickness. As it became apparent that death was near, an Anglican priest was called in to minister to his needs. The dying man gently but firmly refused his ministrations, with the words, "I never fancied read prayers, and I would not want them now, as I go into the presence of God." A Bible-woman then came to him and offered to sing a hymn. "Thank you lady, but I've never sung profane hymns all my life," said the Scot; then he added, "Div ye think ye could sing the 23rd Psalm?" "Yes," said the understanding woman, "and I think I love it more than any hymn."

So the Christian woman sang it; and the only evidence that the dying man heard was that his hand kept time on the bed-covers. When she finished, the old Scot murmured a low "Thank ye." Then there was a long silence, after which he said, "Mem, ye've done me the greatest kindness any Christian could do for another as he stands on the banks of the Jordan." Then a long pause; "I'm going to tell you something, and I think ye'll understand."

"My wife and me was married 35 years, an' lika night o' oor married life we sang a psalm afore we nee'd the rest. She took the air an' I took the bass; and we sang the psalms through 12 times."

"She was taeen frae me ten years ago, an' the night before she died, we sang the 23rd Psalm. I've never sang it since; and I didn't win wi' ye the noo; for I'm waiting to sing it wi' her in oor Father's Hoose, where there will be no more partin' forevermore."

That old saint was right; for even John the Seer could only interpret the end of things in terms of the Shepherd Psalm.

"The Lamb, which is in the midst of the throne, Shall feed them and shall lead them, Into living fountains of water And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes."

ART GALLERY IS MUCH APPRECIATED One of the high points of interest during the reunion was the old time picture gallery in the basement of the town hall. There were a few people there most of the time during Friday, Saturday and Sunday. They were dropping in at all times. Those who went early passed the word along to friends that they "must" see the pictures, and many went two and three times.

The exhibition was enhanced by an exhibition of paintings by four able Newmarket artists, W. J. Hopkinson, R. L. Chadwick, Ross Hugo and Clement King. Some very lovely work was shown.

DRINKING DRIVER'S LICENSE SUSPENDED

Convicted on two charges of driving while intoxicated and leaving the scene of an accident, John A. Williamson, was sentenced to seven days in jail on each charge, the sentences to run consecutively and in addition his car was ordered impounded and his driver's license suspended, in Newmarket police court on Tuesday.

On a third charge of reckless driving, Magistrate Ross Hossack remanded Williamson for sentence. On the charge of leaving the scene of an accident Williamson was given the alternative of paying a fine of $25 and costs of $14.50 but he took the jail sentence.

"I was driving east on Eagle St. at 11 o'clock on the morning of July 1 and the traffic was not very heavy at that time," testified Leonard Burch, Newmarket. "I was on my own side of the road and I saw a car coming, driven by Williamson, and it was zigzagging across the road. There were no other cars and Williamson had all the north side of the road but he struck my trailer and damaged it. My car was not touched and no one was injured. I got out of my car but the other car didn't even stop until Williamson reached his home two blocks away."

"Is it possible that Williamson couldn't have known that he hit you?" asked Magistrate Hossack. "No," answered Mr. Burch. "It was daylight at the time and he couldn't help but hear the crash."

"I investigated the accident and found the Burch trailer thrown to the side of the road badly damaged and also several gouge marks on the road," testified Chief Constable Jas. Sloss, Newmarket. "The road is 20 feet wide and the point of impact was eight feet from the south edge of the pavement. I went to the home of Williamson and found him in an intoxicated condition. There had also been a disturbance in the house and a fight between Williamson and his wife. I placed Williamson under arrest and brought him to the police station. He admitted driving his car but claimed the other car hit him. He could give no explanation why he hadn't stopped after the impact."

"Did you inquire under whose name the car is registered?" asked Magistrate Hossack.

"The car was purchased by Williamson from Ken. Ponting but he had never transferred the ownership and the car is not all paid for," answered Constable Sloss.

Dr. S. J. Boyd said that he examined Williamson at the police station and that he was under the influence of liquor to such an extent as to render him incapable of driving a car properly. Williamson had a strong odor of liquor on his breath, his gait was unsteady, and there was a slur in his voice, the doctor stated.

Williamson, who pleaded guilty to all three charges, stated that he bought the car last fall but had neglected to have the ownership transferred. He said that he had paid for the car in part.

Crown Attorney N. L. Mathews, K. C., stated that Williamson had no previous record but that there had been domestic trouble in the home for some time caused by Williamson's drinking and that Williamson and his wife had separated now.

On a charge of consuming liquor in an illegal place, Howard J. Kittle, Chesterville, was fined $15 and costs of $5 and the liquor was ordered confiscated. K. M. R. Stiver pleaded guilty to the charge for Kittle, who did not appear, and similar charges laid against three others from Chesterville were withdrawn.

Constable Fisher Dunham, Aurora, testified that the car driven by Kittle turned out of Wellington St., in Aurora on Sunday afternoon, May 20, without stopping at the stop sign. The four men had all been drinking and there was a part bottle of liquor in the car, the constable stated.

Mr. Mathews asked that more than the minimum fine be imposed for consuming, as the charges were put off several times and that they had caused a lot of trouble by not appearing or answering their summonses.

On a charge of dressing in public Adam Hajzer, Toronto, was remanded for sentence on the payment of the costs of $2.50.

Mrs. Ash, Lake Wilcox, stated that Hajzer had nothing around his car and that he took off his bathing suit on the road in plain view of everybody. Her little girl came and told her the man was naked and it was not right for the man to undress in front of lots of people and cottages, Mrs. Ash stated.

Constable John Williamson stated that he asked Hajzer why he didn't use the lockers but that he said he had left his clothes in the car.

"You won't do this again, will you?" asked Magistrate Hossack. "No," answered Hajzer.

Convicted on charges of breaking and entering into the service station of Percy Hill, Nobleton, Winston Rogers and George Cunliffe, both of Toronto, were each remanded in custody one week for sentence. Edgar Sullivan, York township, was also remanded in custody one week for sentence on a charge of receiving stolen goods. W. M. Magwood, Toronto, was defended counsel for Sullivan and he pleaded guilty to the receiving charge. Arleigh Armstrong was counsel for Rogers and Cunliffe and he pleaded guilty to the charges against them of breaking and entering.

Crown Attorney Mathews gave special commendation to Percy Hill, and C. Cane, both of Nobleton, and Constable Sam Ireland, Vaughan township, for catching the trio after the break-in, as he stated, there had been a large number of service stations broken into lately.

"I operate a garage on the Main St. of Nobleton and there is another service station across the road operated by Percy Hill," testified Mr. Cane. "On the early morning of June 30 I was awakened at 2:30 P. M. and I looked out but could see no car. After I got dressed I again looked out and saw a car pull in quite close to Hill's station."

"I went over to warn Hill, as he lives next door to us. I could hear a noise as if someone were breaking in. There seemed to be one man in the car, as it was moving around. Mr. Hill got up and dressed and then I saw the car going down the road at 20 m.p.h. and I could see either two or three men in it. I went into my house and phoned Constable Ireland."

"The car was left in front of the station five minutes or longer. I noticed probably four or six packages of cigarettes lying on the ground in front of the station. Hill and I jumped in my car to follow them and about two miles on the other car turned up a side road."

"We didn't go up the road after them as we were waiting for the constable. Then the car came out of the side road again and shortly after that the constable overtook the car and stopped it. The three were placed under arrest and I noticed that the back of their car was filled with cigarettes, tobacco and gum."

Paul Endras, Toronto, no operator's license, $10 and costs, charge laid by Provincial Constable A. O. Ferguson.

W. R. Cant, Burlington, attempting to pass, $5 and costs, charge laid by Constable Ferguson.

Alfred Smethurst, Severn Falls, entering a stop street, $3 and costs, charge laid by Constable Ferguson.

First Girl Twins "Arrive"

One of Newmarket's first girl twins was in The Era office last Friday. She is Mrs. Emily Hackett O'Neill, now of Toronto, formerly of Winnipeg. Her twin sister is Mrs. (Louise) Thomas Moran, Biggar, Sask.

They are believed to be the first girl twins born in Newmarket. They were showered with gifts and their parents didn't have to buy many baby clothes for them.

Another sister of Mrs. O'Neill was with her, Helena Hackett (Mrs. Benjamin Hance), Macdon Centre, New York.

Mrs. Hance stated that her twin sisters were named after Emily Roe Irving, daughter of Wm. Roe, Newmarket's first postmaster, and a sister of Mrs. T. O. Townley, Newmarket, and after Kathleen Louise Bentley, daughter of Dr. John Bentley, Newmarket's famed physician and manufacturing druggist.

Mrs. Hance herself was named after Helena Hackett, daughter of Dr. Hackett, of Newmarket, her mother's physician.

Mrs. Hance and Mrs. O'Neill are daughters of the late Marie Gleason and the late David Hackett, Jr., of Newmarket.

While here they were guests at the Lewis homestead, Yonge St., and at the home of Miss Minnie Doyle and T. F. Doyle.

BLACK AND WHITE

When you buy printing, you want something which will attract favorable attention. It should be attractively and tastefully planned and well printed. That means sharp contrasts, between white paper and black ink, not smudged paper and grayish ink. It means modern types. It means suitably chosen type for the purpose. What a world of difference there is between good printing, which makes people think it is nice, and sloppy printing, which, unfortunately, passes unnoticed. We regard printing as an art in which we can never gain perfection but must never cease trying. We are at your service.

...WHO IN THE MACHINE SHOP WORK

Not for some time now could farming have been practised on the small scale style familiar in the world of yesterday.

If today we had to rely on the old-time cradle methods of cutting and garnering the crop, it would take every able-bodied man in every province of our Dominion to harvest the average wheat crop of Western Canada. Thanks, however, to modern farm machinery, with practically no seasonal increase in hired labor, the farmer is able to take care of even the heaviest of harvests. The making of the machines for harvesting is but a transference of labor from the field to the factory.

Instead of the short seasonal engagement during the rush days of harvest, the implement worker is given longer periods of employment, and the days he spends in making farm equipment lessens the number of men required in the farm field. Thus, these men, during the winter months, help make short work of garnering greater crops during the few and fleeting days of harvest season, and so many of the men thus engaged have themselves come from farm homes.

It was only natural when turning their faces city-wards, that men from the farm should first seek employment with a company whose name to them had been a household word.

In Massey-Harris, whose origin ninety years ago was on a farm, these one-time farmers find a rather logical expression for their abilities in the mechanical side of farming—for while in forge or machine shop—they also farm.

NAME WAS WRONG

In C. K. Morrison's recollections of old days, printed in last week's Era, the name of Mr. Mason, principal of the old Grammar school, was incorrectly given as Mason.

PEPPER AND SALT

BY "PET"

And then came the dawn—and so came the finish of the reunion. Despite the rain, it was fun while it lasted in every respect, except perhaps the financial one. In a sport phase the fair went off well.

The bike races, contested by such stars of the game as Coleman and Ledbetter, were thrilling. One bad spill sent a rider to the hospital but it was purely accidental and no monkey-tricks were pulled off. Mickey Smith held his own with the best of them, grabbing off a second prize in a short distance race.

The field events on Friday were run off smoothly and revealed some classy local talent. It takes serious training to pull down a 440 special as I have found out.

The first game of the softball series between Simpsons and Minettes was a good one. These teams were even-even except in a pitching sense. Ivy Capsey, Simpson's ace and one of the best feminine twirlers in the domain, was too fast for the cool squad. Sure was too bad that we didn't get a peep at Billie Hallam, but then we can't have everything.

Softball is one game where, on occasions, sportsmanship is hard to uncover. However, as in last Friday's encounter, striking instances of it are to be found. The Redmen could have put two points in the win column, since Aurora had only four regulars on deck. Instead, they played the game at its face value, an exhibition, and declared it a "no-contest." It takes sportsmanship to do that.

Minette's, playing like a kindergarten squad, lost the second game of their Dominion day series with Simpson's by a 21-2 count. Their managers blamed the catastrophe on the quantity of strawberry pie which the girls consumed at lunch. However, Simpson's must have had spinach for their dessert because they literally blasted their opponents from the park.

Jessie Stone, on the mound for Simpson's, with almost errorless backing, allowed only feeble hits. Ruth Elson nearly pitched her arm out trying to pull Minette's chestnuts out of the fire and was relieved by Ivy Capsey on loan from Simpson's. However, once the coal squad blew up, their defence evaporated into thin air and runs flowed in like water into a leaky roof. The game, originally scheduled as a nine-inning affair, was ended in the seventh.

Noreen Lunn and Jessie Stone, the Simpson battery, dominated the play with sparkling work. Ruth Elson and Lila Empey, the battery for Minette's, did the best work for that squad.

BELHAVEN SUMMER DESSERT IS ROLL-CALL REPLY

Next Tuesday, July 11, the Belhaven Women's Institute will hold its meeting in the community hall. Roll call will be a "summer dessert."

The program will include a paper on health, Miss Iva Stiles; music, Phyllis Winch; recitation, Margaret Mainprize; speaker, Miss Edith Morton; hostesses, Mrs. Thomas Horner, Miss Main, Mrs. Henry Lence.

Last Sunday morning a missionary from Japan, Miss Rourke, spoke in Bethel United church. There was a good attendance to hear an interesting address.

Strawberries have been quite plentiful this year. The recent rains are helping the raspberries to look more promising.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Wilson, of Toronto, and daughter, Helen, who visited Mrs. Wilson's sister, Mrs. Wm. Winch, a week ago Sunday, have gone on a motor trip to Montreal and other places, making a two weeks holiday.

Belhaven Sunday-school is closed for the hot summer Sundays, and will re-open Aug. 20.
A weiner roast at the lake on Friday night this week is for the Sunday-school and adherents.

On June 21 a meeting of some of the members of Belhaven Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Harvey King to get programs for the meetings for the coming year ready.

MRS. RICHARD THOMPSON DIES IN HOSPITAL

After an illness of some months, the death took place at York county hospital on Friday, June 30, of Violet Young Thompson, wife of Richard Thompson of Newmarket.

The late Mrs. Thompson was born in England and came to Canada as a girl. Since her marriage to Richard Thompson 23 years ago she has lived in Bogartown, Queensville and Newmarket. Surviving are her husband, four daughters, Hazel, Betty, Molly and Dorothy, one son, Herbert, her aged mother, Mrs. Young of Toronto, a sister and a brother.

The funeral service was held in the chapel of Roadhouse and Rose on Monday, July 3, and interment was made in Pine Orchard cemetery.

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. and Mrs. Carman Sheridan, Baldwin, Ont., wish to express their sincere thanks and appreciation to friends and relatives for their kindness and floral tributes in their recent bereavement.

CARD OF THANKS

Mrs. Young and family of Toronto wish to thank the many friends of the late Mrs. Richard Thompson for their kindness to her while in hospital and for sympathy to her family at the time of her passing. We are deeply grateful for it all.

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Manning desire to express their sincere thanks to the separate school old boys' reunion for the kindly remembrance of former years.

"pea" was "three quarters of pea." Another youngster, asked to use the word "treaches," wrote: "Joe Bogart's horse treaches three treaches every day."

You used to take us out to play lacrosse," recalled Ernest Doyle. "When our knuckles were bleeding, you would say, 'you have to learn to take it, boys.' If I ever was a lacrosse player, you were the one who started me."

"I am glad that I lived on Ontario St. all my life," said Robert E. Manning, who used to play lacrosse with the boys at recess time. "I knew all the teachers and the boys and girls. I never met a nicer lot of boys and girls. They used to come into the shop every day."

Fred Doyle recalled how he once spent three days in Manning's blacksmith shop instead of at school and Jack Kennedy, now of Ottawa, also present for the reunion, went home with him at the end of the third day, carrying a note to his mother.

"I took the rest," he said, as Mr. Kennedy laughed. "I have never forgiven Jack."

"If they were in Bob Manning's blacksmith shop, they were in the right atmosphere," said Mr. Cain. "All is forgiven now."

Miss Margaret Kelman, Toronto, who taught for two years, said that she had a class of 25 children, the first year the junior class was established.

Harry Haskett, Long Branch, said: "It is between 60 and 70 years since I was a pupil here."

"No matter where we go, Newmarket will always be home," said W. E. Dolan, Toronto, stating that his school days must have been contemporaneous with Mr. Cain's.

"I can still remember when the new cemetery was opened and remains were being transferred," said Helena Haskett (Mrs. Benjamin Hance, Macedon Centre, N. Y.). "The boys used to chase the girls with the bones that they found."

"Coming back to my old town, nothing has given me more pleasure than meeting my old school friends here," she said. "I keep in touch with the town through The Era. It means a great deal."

"Sir William Mulock was Willie to my father, who worked as a gardener for Sir William's mother."

Foundry Takes Tannery For 20-10 Softball Ride

HEAVY SLUGGING GAME SEES TANNERS AT TOP OF TOWN LEAGUE

The foundry softball team, winners of only one game last year, have shown themselves the team to beat in the town softball league this season. With a surprise 20-10 win over the tannery on Wednesday night, they vie with that squad for first place in league standing.

The foundry has two wins and no losses. The tannery has one loss and two wins. The shoemakers have lost two and the town team one.

Whippman and Hadfield led the foundry batters last night with three runs each. Trivett, Belman, Hayes and Gardner gathered two each, and Wilson and McCluskey crossed the plate once.

STUART PATRICK TALKS TO WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

A meeting of the Women's Institute, held at the home of Mrs. Frank Williams on the second of King, was addressed by Stuart Patrick on Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. Patrick, a member of the Aurora fire brigade who recently took the St. John's ambulance course in first aid, gave the members a splendid talk on that subject.

West, Kidd and Burtenshaw were the heavy hitters for the tannery, with two runs each. Ferguson, Brown, Hodgins and Lustin each got credit for one run.

Here's the score by innings:
 Tannery: 1 0 0 3 0 6—10
 Foundry: 2 7 0 8 1 0—20

Sanitation Most Important In Town, Declares Mayor Walton

COUNCIL TO INSPECT DIS-POSAL PLANT; SEEK IMPROVEMENT

"A lady called me today about a nuisance from the disposal plant," stated Reeve J. A. Knowles in council on Monday evening. "Have we bought those plates yet?"

"The plates" referred to are filtering plates needed to replace plates which were altered some time ago to adapt them for the tannery effluent at that time. The type of effluent has been changed, and the change has brought the necessity for new filter plates.

Councillor Wilson reported that the particular size needed was no longer made by the company which had originally supplied the plates. Other plates could be adopted, however, he said, and stated that the cost would be $15 per plate.

INSPECTOR APPOINTMENT

The Newmarket health officer had been approached concerning the appointment of a milk inspector, Mayor J. M. Walton told council on Monday, but no reply had been received to date.

"That is not so bad," said the mayor.

"But we need 54 plates," said Mr. Wilson.

"We may not need them all, just for one tank," said Councillor Stuart.

"The whole council should go down to the disposal plant," the mayor contended. "There is nothing more important than this in a town. Sanitation is everything in a town."

LETTERS TO COUNCIL BRING DISCUSSION

"This property is going to be protected," a letter, written to council by Daniel Whitmore, said in part when read in council on Monday night. The writer, who owns a farm north of the town through which passes the "tannery" creek, objected to men coming on his property without permission to clear out the stream.

"Our men have no right on the property without permission," the mayor commented.

"When we settled with him for $300, he was not going to give any more trouble," said Councillor John Stuart.

"The men should have got permission," Reeve J. A. Knowles declared.

Another letter received by council was from A. A. Brydon who has taken over what was known as the Collins farm. He asked that a hydrant be placed near the entrance to the property.

Councillor Stuart volunteered the information that the fire department did not have a hose long enough to reach the property from any other hydrant.

"We have just paid $150 to give him power," stated Councillor Ross Linton.

"Is he within the town limits?" asked the mayor.

It was stated that while the property was within the town limits, it was doubtful if council could afford funds to do the necessary work of installing a hydrant.

A communication, quoting a price of $950 for repairs in connection with the town's "water tank" was referred back to the water works committee, at the request of the chairman, Reeve Knowles, as it was believed the repair could be made at a much smaller cost.

W. H. Taylor, town assessor, applied for re-appointment this year.

"Mr. Farr and Dr. Henderson are away," said Councillor Stuart. "I know these two gentlemen are interested in the assessment of this town and I think they should have a say in the matter."

The appointment of an assessor was left until the next meeting.

FIVE-YEAR-OLD IS BURNED BY GASOLINE

Five-year-old Jimmie, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Cook, Harrison Ave., sustained a burned leg, and Mr. Cook's hand was painfully burned, as the result of an accident which took place on Friday evening.

The boy was playing with a match, ignited it, and dropped it as it was about to scorch his fingers. The match fell into a pail of waste gas and oil. Trying to remove the flaming pail from the garage, the boy spilled some against his leg, and Mr. Cook, coming to the rescue, burned his hand.

Mr. Cook sent in a fire alarm, but put in such good work with a chemical fire extinguisher that the firemen had little to do when they arrived, and little damage was done.

AURORA WINS SIX OF SEVEN NET MATCHES

Aurora won six out of seven tennis matches played with representatives from Newmarket on the local courts on Wednesday. In the "A" singles, "Wink" Bernard defeated T. B. Scott, of Newmarket, in the "B" singles.

Arnold Moynaux and T. B. Scott, Newmarket, defeated Keith Davis and Lees Owrain in the "A" doubles. Keith Nesbitt and partner defeated N. L. Mathews and Mr. Newman in the "B" doubles.

In the ladies' singles, Miss Constance Willis defeated Miss B. E. Lyons, Newmarket, and later combined with Miss Mae Fry to defeat Miss Marjorie McCarnan and Miss B. E. Lyons in the ladies' doubles.

Miss Mae Fry and Keith Davis defeated Arnold Moynaux and Miss Marjorie McCarnan in the mixed doubles event.

SOFTBALL CLUB LOSES SHORE, PITCHING STAR

Aurora's representatives in the Simcoe softball league suffered a bad blow when it was learned this week that "Nugget" Shore, their star hurler, would not be available for the rest of the season. He is taking a summer course in Hamilton.

On top of this, Ray White, star first baseman, wrenched his knee, and is out of play for a while.

The net result, as witnessed in Sutton on Tuesday night, was all to the bad. The Aurorians went down to a 12-2 defeat. Bill Bone, relief pitcher, did a nice job, but the team failed to click, and unless they can pull themselves together they will have a real fight to get into the play-offs.

Their game with Newmarket on Thursday of last week was postponed by rain, and they were unable to field their regular team on the night following. The engagement, which saw Newmarket as heavy winners, was declared an exhibition game.

Description of the game is reported elsewhere.

TWO HUNDRED GATHER FOR DAVIS REUNION

Well known in King township since 1795, the Davis clan held their first family reunion at the home of Frank Davis on the fourth concession of King, last week.

More than 200 gathered for the celebration with Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Richardson and Mrs. M. Harvey coming the farthest distance, from Minnesota. Milton Hurst, Buffalo, was chairman. Miss Mary Stephens, Kettleby, helped to organize the event.

The oldest in attendance was Mrs. D. Eade of Toronto, age 81, and the youngest was Arthur Brooks, Gormley, less than a year old.

FAMILY UNITES AT JOHN ELLIOTT'S HOME

Held at the Elliott farm on the fifth concession of King, the Elliott family reunion drew together a large number of relatives on Saturday.

John Elliott, who was host to the gathering, was the oldest man present, while his sister, Mrs. J. Bolton, of Kettleby, was the oldest woman. Will Ramsden, who convened the gathering, was re-elected president.

EDITORIAL

A BEVERAGE ROOM

A petition, a first step towards obtaining a beverage room, is now being circulated in Aurora. If 25 per cent of the voters sign it, the question must be put to the voters. If 60 per cent of the voters then approved, Aurora would have a beverage room.

We don't want that to happen. Defence of the beverage room is usually attempted on the two grounds: (a) that it enables the working man who wants a glass of beer to have it without buying a case; (b) that the existence of a beverage room attracts trade to the town.

Both "reasons" are only excuses—calculated to appeal to the self-interest of a few.

In the first place, the working-man who wants one glass of beer, though he would be better off without one, may not stop at one. Although regulations state that it is unlawful to permit drunkenness on any premises, no one would attempt to deny that beer rooms not only permit, but encourage drunkenness. This can be proved in any beverage room, any week day, in Ontario.

The second suggestion, that beer is good for business, is without foundation in fact. . . . beer is bad for business.

The restaurant business, the beer men say, booms with the freer sale of beer. We would point out that Bradford, with two licensed hotels, has two or three restaurants. Aurora, without a beverage room, has half a dozen restaurants.

Aside from this, it must be obvious that money spent on beer cannot be spent on anything else. . . . a pay envelope from which there is one dollar less for food, shelter and clothing.

Farmers, it is sometimes suggested, would rather do their Saturday night shopping in a beverage-room town. But Bradford, for example, does not appear to have profited greatly thereby. Nor do tourists, whom beer men say are attracted by a town with a beverage room, tend to support the statement. A large proportion of tourists travel with their families and are not buying beer. The highway death toll, in fact, is a constant reminder to tourists of the dangers of the drink-and-drive idea.

The moral angle—the shame of bringing a freer sale of beer into the intimate community life of a small town—is well known. And if the leaders of our community—including ministers, club and group executives—are on the job, it will become better known in the next few weeks.

Beer is bad business for Aurora. We trust The Era will not be alone in taking this stand.

NO LIGHT POLES ON HAND, WARNS REEVE

"I would like to ask the electric light committee if they have any poles on hand," said Reeve J. A. Knowles at council on Monday.

"No," said Councillor Ross Linton, to whom the question was directed.

The reeve said he had been talking to an officer of another municipality, and had learned that a stock of from 12 to 25 poles was usually kept.

"If a storm comes up, we might have trouble," the reeve warned.

"I understand that Mr. Bodfish has poles that we can use at any minute," said Councillor John Stuart.

"No," said Councillor Linton. "I inquired about that and there are none."

"You would buy just a dozen poles?" asked the mayor.

"Oh, yes," said Mr. Linton. "We are going to have heavy debts this fall," the mayor warned.

On a motion by the reeve the purchase of 12 poles was authorized.

COMPLAINS OF WEEDS, CONDITION OF CREEK

Stating that a sewer man-hole projected over a foot above ground on his property, Stuart Patrick appeared before council on Monday night with a request that the town fill in the surrounding ground to bring it up level.

"We will note in the minutes that you have applied, and will refer the matter to the road and bridge committee. We will ask the town foreman to look after it," said Mayor J. M. Walton.

Mr. Patrick made a complaint about the unchecked growth of weeds on a property adjoining his own, and the mayor promised that the weed inspector, Chief Fisher Dunham, would report on the matter.

Mr. Patrick had still another matter for complaint. Litter was being thrown into the creek, he stated, above his property.

"They must not pollute a creek," the mayor declared. "Refer it to the sanitary inspector. He will look after it tomorrow."

PLAN NO COUNCIL MEETING TILL AUGUST

Council, which has been meeting two and three times a month for some time, will get a little rest from their labors, it was intimated on Monday night.

"There will be no meeting of council until the regular meeting (the first Monday in August) unless there is an emergency," stated Mayor J. M. Walton.

and towners on Monday and towners will play the game which they failed to play on Friday of last week, on Friday of next week.

IS SHOWERED

Miss Ruth Billbrough, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Billbrough, was showered on Tuesday afternoon when a group of friends gathered in her honor at the home of Mrs. E. Conson.

CHIEF TO GET SHIRT AND DAY OFF, AS WELL

Chief Constable Fisher Dunham will get a shirt to put on and a day to take off, as a result of decisions reached at council on Monday.

The chief had asked for a new tunic and shirt, and for relief from his seven-day weekly grind. It was decided that a new police shirt would be purchased, and that the matter of a tunic would be left until later. For one night a week, his place will be taken by Town Foreman James Goulding. A. Egan will take Mr. Goulding's place as town foreman the following day.

Petition Is Circulated For Beverage Room

CLAIM MORE THAN HALF OF NECESSARY NAMES
ALREADY OBTAINED

Aurora, long a stronghold of dry sentiment, awoke this week to learn that a petition is being circulated, which, if it succeeds in its purpose, would open up the town to the establishment of beverage rooms, selling beer and wine.

If the petition, which is being circulated by Percy Lloyd, proprietor of the Hotel Aurora, is signed by more than 25 per cent of the voters, council will be forced to permit a vote on whether Aurora will be open for beverage rooms or not.

It would require approval of 60 per cent of the voters before beverage rooms could be established.

As it stands now, the sponsors of the petition claim to have from 225 to 250 signatures on the petition. From 400 to 450 names are necessary, it is estimated, before council will be obliged to handle the matter.

Discussion of the comparative strength of the "wets" and "drys" has brought considerable speculation as to the number of hotels which would be permitted to function as purveyors of beer and wine if a vote resulted in favor of the "wets."

Aurora has several old hotels located near the C. N. R. station, it is pointed out, and several of the tourists' homes and restaurants along Yonge St. might possibly be adapted for use as licensed hotels.

TOWN WILL CHECK UP HYDRO CONTRACTS

Following Newmarket's lead in querying the town hydro charges, council decided on Monday night to check over Aurora's light and power contract, to see that charges now being made for light and power are consistent with the terms of the contract. The question was brought up by Reeve J. A. Knowles, with the admonition that "the light department should look into it."

"Smells Like A Glue Factory," John Stuart Describes Creek

EVERY CITIZEN AFFECTED, COMMENTS MAYOR.

"IT'S BAD"

"It smells like a glue factory," declared Councillor John Stuart on Monday night, as council were discussing the characteristics of a creek which passes through Aurora.

"It is very bad," commented Mayor J. M. Walton.

Mr. Stuart had been talking to a local beekeeper, he said, and the man had stated the smell was getting into the honey.

"We never had this complaint five or six years ago," said Reeve J. A. Knowles.

"Just once in a while," amended Mr. Stuart.

"If the town gets offensive in this respect, it is bad," the mayor

SPEND $1,000 FOR RE-WIRING METCALFE ST.

Approximately $1,000 is being spent on the re-wiring of electric light lines on Metcalfe St., in conjunction with the Bell Telephone Company, Councillor Ross Linton told council on Monday night.

"There was not enough power there to turn the washing machines on on Mondays," Mr. Linton declared.

said. "Every citizen is affected. In other places they get rid of the offence."

The reeve outlined a plan of action which he thought council might adopt, and it was intimated that the matter might become the subject for a special meeting.

Council Inquires How Reunion Is Celebrated In Newmarket

ENTERTAINMENT

The degree of success attending Newmarket's old boys' reunion was discussed by council on Monday night.

Newmarket's dance floor, at five cents a dance, had been a money-maker, Reeve J. A. Knowles thought.

Mayor J. M. Walton expressed some concern over "the class of girls who hung around jittery dances in industrial centres," and hoped none had been "imported" for the Newmarket dance.

"It was good clean entertainment," Reeve Knowles declared. The reeve had marched with a man from Moose Jaw, Sask., and with another from Boston, Mich., in the veterans' parade, he stated.

The mayor pointed out that while Aurora was not anticipating any celebration, it was a good thing to know how they were conducted in other towns.

"The Newmarket citizens' committee gave more co-operation than we had last year," Reeve Knowles declared.

Mayor Walton expressed his belief that the Aurora celebration had not been a municipal affair in the same sense.

"The Aurora celebration was sponsored by council for the jubilee year," stated the reeve.

"Was it?" said Mayor Walton, to whom this was evidently news. He urged the preservation of town records and photographs, citing the interest shown in these at the Newmarket celebration.

WEDDINGS

BEATTY - BAIN

In an attractive ceremony conducted at the Aurora United Church on Saturday afternoon, Doris Bain, daughter of Mr. George Bain and the late Mr. Bain, was married to Erdman Beatty, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Beatty, of Gravenhurst.

Rev. T. W. Neal officiated. The church was attractively decorated with pink and white peonies and orange blossoms.

The bride was gown in white net over tulle, bouffant style, and her veil was caught in folds at the

RECEIVES CALL FROM CHURCH IN FAR WEST

Thursday's rain brought relief to thirsty ground, and new life is springing up everywhere.

In spite of the showers the two strawberry festivals, one at Strangle, the other at Temperanceville, went on as usual and were pronounced successes. The crowds were smaller but the feast and the program were all that could be desired.

Norman Ferguson is home from hospital where he made a good recovery. He is wished a complete and quick recovery.

Mr. Colin Sinclair has gone to Orillia to his son's home for the summer. After a long illness, Mr. Sinclair is able to be around again. He will be missed from King.

On Thursday, Rev. T. Lewis Williams and Mrs. Donald Sinclair Ransom of King were united in marriage at the manse, Newmarket, by Rev. Dr. D. McIntyre. Rev. Mr. Williams, a former pastor of Eversley and King Presbyterian churches, recently received a call from the church at Cranbrook, B. C.

On Monday morning Mr. and Mrs. Williams and son, Tommy, began their motor trip west to their new home. This happy couple is wished all happiness and success in their new venture. The Ransom home in King City is closed and will be missed as a centre of church activities. Mrs. Ransom was prominent in all work pertaining to the church and while president of the local W. M. S. was also vice-president of section four, W. M. S.

On Tuesday evening of last week Eversley strawberry festival was held in the beautiful grounds of Mr. Elliott's farm, formerly the Pearson Wells farm beside the Humber. It was a decided success. The tables were set on the shady lawn, and the beautiful home was open for use and the convenient kitchen and verandah were used for the serving.

A football game was played on the school grounds and later a crowd from there came for their supper. The entertainment was delightful with music, singing, elocution, and a fine variety of fun, with Rev. W. E. Burch as chairman.

The former owner, Mr. Parnham Wells, was a man of vision. He planted trees, a cedar hedge along the front of the farm, and a tall protecting hedge along the Humber. Annually he planted trees along the river (or creek) and began a forest planting.

Mr. Elliott has added to this with a great variety of trees, and in the grounds around the home blue spruce are used along the drives and throughout the grounds in great numbers.

The sunken garden to the south of the house is full of shrubs and flowers, a delight to the beauty-loving soul. There is a lot of rock work, an open five o'clock tea room, a stone wall, a stone fireplace, a wonderful cement table supported by a solid stone column. Rustic seats are there, the work of the caretaker, Jack Bak, who has made the heavy, beautiful furniture of the house, who has lined the walls and ceilings of the rooms with beautiful woods. Mr. and Mrs. Bak were very kind seeing to the comfort of all. Everyone thanks Mr. Elliott for his kindness in opening this beautiful estate for use.

The Ferguson clan held their annual reunion on Saturday at Cedarvale school, Georgetown. This is an ideal location, belonging to the United Church. The buildings are now being used for underprivileged girls. There are 20 girls in residence. The matron, Miss Jessie Oliver, is a valued member of the clan, one from the Hugh Ferguson group at Avonbank, near St. Mary's.

Miss Mary Oliver, her niece, is the school teacher and Miss Margaret Oliver, another niece, is there also.

The girls sang in the evening. A few of them danced, and one danced the highland fling. They carried and served the food and enjoyed the fun.

There was a good representation of the clan present, largely from Toronto and the St. Mary's district. Some were there from Detroit and received the prize for coming the greatest distance. Mr. Arthur Bennington was present from Newmarket, a group from Aurora and different groups from King. Over 100 were present.

John A. A. Ferguson as secretary had a list of sports. Ivan Ferguson was president. His son was sports leader and kept the young people busy. They had lots of fun. The buildings are on the side of a hill. A large lawn stretches across to a willow hedge bordering a creek, a vegetable garden and flower borders and continues to the base of a hill clad with an orchard of apple and cherry trees. A herd of Jersey cows browsed on a lush meadow. There was Jersey cream to serve on strawberries. In all, it was a perfect day and perfect company.

POTTAGEVILLE TEAM PLAYS AT MT. PISGAH

Mrs. B. E. Stone, Mrs. J. Hamlet, Miss Marjorie Hamlet, Mr. Frank Hamlet, all of Detroit, and Mrs. Hamlet of Toronto visited Mr. and Mrs. Harold Stone at their summer residence on Thursday.

Miss Mary Platt of King is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Houghton.

On Tuesday night of last week Pottageville Y.P.U. visited Mount Pisgah to play baseball with the Y.P.U. there. Good sportsmanship was shown on both sides, the score ending in favor of Mount Pisgah.

After the game the young people were invited to the Mount Pisgah United church where they held their worship period. Afterwards games were played and refreshments served concluding a very pleasant evening.

Mrs. Wm. Butler visited in Toronto on Wednesday.

Donald Emmett of Toronto visited his cousins, Harold and Raymond Funnell, for the holiday weekend.

The Y.P.U. was held on Wednesday evening as usual with a fair attendance considering the dark thunder clouds.

Leland Paton, the Christian culture convener, had a reading. John Wilson gave a reading entitled "The road to the best of good luck."

Misses Rida and Doris Houghton rendered a duet, "Tell It Again," accompanied by their father, Ed. Houghton, at the piano. Leland Paton gave several readings and the topic, "In My Father's House are many mansions."

The president closed the meeting with the benediction.

Mr. Jim Dolan of Hamilton spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Ward Cook.

Mr. Don Dodgson of Toronto spent Sunday at the summer residence of Dr. and Mrs. Burt Gerrans and Betty and Norman.

The worship service in the United Church was very much enjoyed on Sunday. Rev. W. J. Burton conducted the service, his sermon being on "Prayers." The choir rendered two anthems, "Standing on the Promises" and "Since Jesus came into my heart."

The Sunday-school picnic that was to have been held on July 1 was postponed until July 8 owing to so many family reunions. A cordial invitation is extended to everyone. The committee will appreciate anyone bringing refreshments who wishes to do so.

Many from here attended family reunions held in different parts.

Miss Margaret McKinley and Mr. Jack Skirving of Toronto were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Funnell.

Many from here attended the decoration service at Kettleby cemetery on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Lawrence of Toronto were Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. T. Williams.

Pine Orchard

Quite a number from here attended the reunion in Newmarket Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Aylmer Allen of Tillsonburg visited the Misses Widdfield for the holidays.

Misses Bentice and Alma Chapman spent the weekend at home.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Galley and daughter of Toronto visited Mr. and Mrs. H. McClure on Saturday and Sunday. Mrs. Galley and daughter remained for some holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Lundy and family of Toronto spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Lundy.

Mr. and Mrs. Houlder of Hespeler are visiting the Braden family.

Mr. and Mrs. Hart Dike, Delbert and Billie, attended the Dike picnic at Mr. Archie Dike's on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur left Monday to visit friends at Hamilton, Grimsby and Brighton.

Tussell Sprinton and Mr. McKnight have both had the misfortune to lose a horse.

Betty Hope, Jacqueline Skinner, Marie Reynolds and Delbert Dike passed the ninth grade exams. The entrance pupils who wrote are anxiously awaiting the results. They are wished success.

SCHOMBERG ANNUAL CLAN REUNION DRAWS LARGE CROWD

Mrs. F. V. Abbott and family are on vacation at Big Bay Point, Lake Simcoe.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Sutton and small daughter, Marilyn, of Sudbury, spent the holiday weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Marchant.

Rev. and Mrs. McEwen have taken up residence at the parsonage, coming here from Stouffville to take the Schomberg charge of the United Church. The community extends a welcome to them and their family.

The Women's Association met in the United church basement on Thursday last for a quilting.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. McGowan spent the holiday at Innisfil Park, Lake Simcoe.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Banting of Weston, also Miss Edith Bond and Mrs. M. Williams of Toronto, were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Marchant.

The Burton family held their annual reunion in Schomberg park on Saturday with members of the clan coming from Toronto, Woodbridge, Coldwater, London, Port Credit, and local points. Some 150 sat down to supper. After supper, when the business session was held with Harry Burton, Port Credit, retiring president, in charge, Wm. Burton, Bond Head, was elected president for the coming year with Mrs. Kaiser of Woodbridge as secretary-treasurer. Special prizes were presented. Robert McKechnie of London was the oldest man present, while Miss P. Burton, Lloydtown, was the oldest woman.

Mrs. Taylor of London took the prize for coming the longest distance and Master Harry Norton, Woodbridge, received a prize for being the youngest of the clan present.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Burrett, Richmond Hill, were the youngest married couple at the gathering.

A program of sports was run off in the afternoon and evening with a dance in the town hall at night. James McEwen was a big help to all and kept everything going in his usual hearty way.

Miss Della McKinley and Mrs. McKinley attended Nobleton Anglican church garden party on July 1.

KETTLEBY KETTLEBY HAS ANNUAL DECORATION SERVICES

Among the Sunday guests in the village were Mr. and Mrs. J. Jamieson and son, visiting at Mr. and Mrs. J. Archibald's; Mr. and Mrs. H. Walls of Newmarket at Mr. and Mrs. T. Greensides'; Mr. O. Ramsden and Mrs. F. Ramsden of Newmarket at Mr. and Mrs. W. Wilson's; Mr. and Mrs. T. Wilson, Dunkerton; at Mr. and Mrs. S. Hencock's; Mrs. B. Curtis and family of Port Credit at Mr. and Mrs. F. Curtis'; Mr. and Mrs. A. Storey at Mr. and Mrs. J. Lepard's; Mr. and Mrs. C. James of Toronto at Mr. and Mrs. C. West's; Mr. H. Armstrong and Miss I. Dolsen at Mr. and Mrs. H. Murray's.

The annual memorial service was held at Kettleby cemetery on Sunday afternoon and was largely attended. Rev. F. V. Abbott, Schomberg, was chairman, assisted by Rev. J. Galloway, King, and Rev. W. J. Burton, Kettleby. The latter was principal speaker. The Aurora boys' band under Mr. Bailey's direction rendered music during the service.

At the close of the service all present gathered around the soldiers' plot for its dedication. Rev. F. V. Abbott conducted the service assisted by Rev. Mr. Galloway and Rev. Mr. Burton. The veterans of Schomberg and district were under the command of Mr. Gladstone Lloyd of Schomberg, president of the association, Mrs. Daniel Case and Mrs. Burns, both silver cross winners, were present at the service.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Walton entertained the Aurora boys' band at Brunswick Hall for supper which was served on the spacious lawn after the decoration service on Sunday. They played many hymns which were lovely to hear.

Misses Wilma and Lois Burton spent the weekend at their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. West and Mr. and Mrs. A. Farren and daughters spent the weekend with relatives in London.

Mrs. R. Morris and son of Toronto were recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Harmon. Mrs. J. Murray is spending a few days in Newmarket with her daughter, Mrs. W. J. Gurr.

Miss Grace Blackford entertained a number of her little friends on Tuesday afternoon, the occasion being her birthday.

Miss A. Allen of Toronto is a guest at Mr. and Mrs. J. MacDonalda's.

Wider Health Areas With Nurse For Each Municipality - M.O.H.

Bowser. "Thank goodness, it's over. I wouldn't thank anyone else."

"You couldn't stop it with contacts running all over the place," said Dr. Boyd.

"Why can't you stop them?" asked Councillor D. O. Mungovan.

"The law is at fault," replied Dr. Boyd.

"Shouldn't the M. O. H. tell the provincial officers?" asked Mr. Bowser.

"He did," said the mayor. "We had the deputy-minister here." "Dr. Wesley said that, at a recent health officers' convention, no two opinions were alike on the subject."

"Didn't we pay good money to a nurse?" queried Mr. Bowser.

"Yes," said Dr. Wesley. "She did good work."

"It was just a waste of money," said Dr. Boyd. "Everybody got it anyway."

"We are all entitled to our own opinions," said Dr. Wesley. "The next time there is a disease record the only thing to do is to get the first child and all the contacts and quarantine them."

Dr. Wesley then went on to give his approval to a card system scheme inaugurated by Rev. Dr. W. D. Muckle at the separate school.

"There is a card for each child showing if he or she was toxoided, what diseases they have had, etc.," said Dr. Wesley.

"That would cost too much," said Dr. Boyd. "Who is going to keep the record?"

"Health officers' work is expanding so rapidly that the only thing will be to have a full-time health officer for a larger area, with a health nurse for each municipality," said Dr. Wesley. "The health nurse would keep records concerning every child, so that we would know what disease the child has had, without having to ask the parents. The parents are putting it over us too often. We should have more information about the children."

Dr. Wesley then declared that the present garbage dump in the centre of the town is a menace to health. "It shouldn't be in the centre of the town. It should be outside."

"Yes," agreed Councillor Wm. Dixon.

"Or if it is in town, there should be an incinerator," said Dr. Wesley.

"Wouldn't you have just as much odor?" asked Councillor D. O. Mungovan.

"No, a high chimney would take the odor away above the town," Dr. Wesley answered.

"Shouldn't that come to us as a recommendation from the board of health?" asked Mr. Mungovan.

"Yes, at the end of the year," said Dr. Wesley. "I am just mentioning it now to get the council in a good humor for it."

Reeve F. A. Lundy said that if garbage were covered with ashes "as you go along, there will be no trouble."

Councillor Dixon recommended filling Widdfield park with ashes.

"It is not worth anything now," said Dr. Boyd. "It would be worth something with four feet of ashes in it."

"Is the water all right?" asked Mr. Bowser.

"It is Class A, that is, it has a very low bacteria count," said Dr. Wesley. "We are trying to keep the smell down by asking to have the mains flushed out frequently."

"It would be a good idea to build an incinerator," said Dr. Boyd. "We couldn't do it now, but at the end of the year we could make plans."

"I wouldn't trust a chimney," said Mr. Mungovan.

"There is already an incinerator at the Davis tannery," said Mr. Lundy.

"Is there no smell?" asked Mr. Mungovan.

"No," said Mr. Lundy.

place the cemetery board and shareholders are setting an example of comradeship which ought to be emulated the world over," he said. "I thank you for this donation of these 'little green tents' for those who have marched from the war away."

Mr. Mahoney then spoke of the flagstaff "given, by the grace of God, by Capt. A. Davis. Capt. Davis, if you are present, I want to thank you."

He then thanked J. O. Little for the gift of a flag. "On top of the flagstaff flies a flag that is to some only a bit of bunting, but to others, who have fought for it, it is the symbol of freedom."

President Alf. Smith and Secretary-Treasurer S. J. Brice were to be thanked for their efforts in securing the gift of a veterans' plot, said the speaker.

Splendidly amplified by Stewart Beare, the service was carried clearly to everyone in the large outdoor congregation.

On conclusion of the Decoration service, the veterans' units marched to the veterans' plot, where one veteran already lay. Mr. Mahoney dedicated the ground. The veterans' units dipped their flags as Jack Arlitt played the "Last Post," raising them again with "Reveille." At the same time J. O. Little hoisted the new flag from half-mast to its full height and glory.

The services at the cemetery were preceded and followed by a parade of the R. S. A. Bugle Band, the Citizens' Band, veterans' units and Newmarket and Aurora firemen. The veterans' units included Newmarket veterans, Aurora veterans, North York township veterans, 220th and 127th veterans from county and city, Imperial women veterans, and North York township veterans' women's auxiliary.

GOODNESS ARISING OUT OF FEAR DEPRECATED

Trinity United church was crowded with members and visitors on Reunion Sunday morning. About 300 persons, a record number, took communion.

"My principal objection to a planned economy is that it does not provide for an accident," declared Rev. R. H. McMath, the pastor, explaining that he had lost his manuscript on a sermon, "Christianity and Maturity."

"No human plan will take care of every emergency," he said. Mr. McMath made an appeal for an increase in faith, an increase in knowledge of God and an increase in love.

"Goodness motivated by fear is not virtue," said Mr. McMath.

The Junior choir under Miss Harris, organist, sang three anthems.

NINE-MONTHS-OLD BOY PASSES IN HOSPITAL

Following a month's illness from pneumonia, Carman Wayne, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Carman Sheridan, Baldwin, died in the Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto, on Saturday. He was nine months of age. The funeral was held from the chapel of Roadhouse and Rose, conducted by Rev. C. E. Foelker of Keswick. Pallbearers were a great-uncle, Frank Sheridan, and a cousin, Francis Sheridan. Interment was in Pine Orchard cemetery.

A Different Way

At a certain church a beautiful arched way was put up and over it was inscribed: This is the Gate of Heaven.

While the paint was yet wet a large printed notice was attached with the words: Please Go Around the Other Way.

DOES WORK HERE

Pictured here is the artist, Francis J. Haxby, who has painted the lovely new background for the "Blessed Virgin" shrine at St. John's Roman Catholic church. Mr. Haxby's portrait of King George VI is being hung in the city hall.

ARTIST COMMENDS REUNION DECORATION

Editor, The Era: I am writing to express my sincere thanks to you for the kind write-up that you gave my oil painting of His Majesty King George VI for the city of Toronto.

I feel very grateful to the Rev. Dr. Muckle for the kind introduction to your valuable paper whilst I was visiting Newmarket to finish the background of the shrine of Our Lady in St. John's Church.

I am sure that Newmarket will appreciate the progressive spirit that Dr. Muckle has always shown in any object that is for the welfare of all citizens.

The citizens of Newmarket are to be congratulated upon the wonderful success of their reunion, and the beautiful street decorations, which were a pleasure to behold.

My desire also is to pay tribute to Sir William Mulock, whose encouragement a few years ago has been very stimulating towards my present success in art.

When the painting of His Majesty is officially hung in the city hall in Toronto, I will be pleased to let you know, so that anyone may be able to see it.

Your very truly,

Francis J. Haxby.

Several people of the community attended the play presented by the Udonia Young People at Egypt last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Mason and family have moved into the store recently vacated by Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Clarke. They are wished success.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Taylor and Kenneth spent the holiday weekend up north.

Rev. and Mrs. A. Lehman and family are attending the camp meetings at Stayner.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Rae and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Rae of Virginia visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kay on Sunday.

Miss Zetta Mason is spending part of her holidays camping at Stayner.

Mr. and Mrs. Mahlon Sedore and Mr. and Mrs. David Charpentier accompanied the Delrie family on a trip to Callander on Sunday.

Messrs. John and George Black of Toronto and Ottawa, respectively, visited friends in the community on Sunday.

Mr. Charles Millstead of Queensville spent the weekend with his sister, Mrs. Frank Methelal.

The teacher and pupils of the school enjoyed a picnic at Jackson's Point last Thursday afternoon.

Miss Janet Crawford is attending the Young People's camp at Lake Simcoe.

VICTORIA SQUARE CLUBS PRESENT GIFT AT REGULAR MEETING

On Sunday afternoon about 25 members of the V. P. U. motored to Camp Ashbury at Albion's Point where they spent a most pleasant and profitable time with the campers. Marion Smith and Ian Macdonald are the two full-time campers from Victoria Square.

The Junior Farmers held their regular monthly meeting on Tuesday night with a good attendance. The meeting was in the form of a visit to Claymar Farm where they were the guests of James Russell for an hour, viewing his farm crops and stock, later returning to the community hall.

The Junior Institute held their meeting in the hall when an interesting program was enjoyed. The two clubs presented Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hilley with a beautiful wedding gift. After the meeting a number went over to Harold Aeronaut's and enjoyed the dance in his new barn sponsored by the Unionville Junior Farmers.

Betty Colford left on Wednesday to spend ten days at the boys' camp at Albion's Point.

Mr. and Mrs. Atwood of Uxbridge spent Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Walter Hilley.

Mrs. John Snyder is in hospital where she underwent an operation. Her many friends wish her a speedy recovery.

The York Roads Commission is busy paving the road between Victoria Square and Cornaby and expect to have it completed in a couple of weeks.

Sir William Recalls When Pigeons Darkened Sky son was an active worker for prohibition, and he organized a temperance society for the children of Newmarket nearly 90 years ago.

"I saw a daughter of Mrs. John Bogart submerged in the creek in the cold of a winter day, during a Christian church baptism service. She had to walk to a lumber wagon, and then drive two miles home, in her wet clothes. She never suffered from her experience. It showed the sincerity of the people of that day that they were ready to undergo such hardships for their religion."

"In my young days, Newmarket was in the centre of woods, and wild pigeons used to come over in millions. In the day time they almost darkened the sky. Today they are gone."

"The population of Newmarket was somewhere between 500 and 1,000. There were five councillors. On one occasion there was an election for reeve. The word went around that one of the candidates had been assaulted. He was elected out of sympathy. Subsequently it was learned that he had been smeared with chicken blood."

"There were two schools. The high school was called the grammar school. I cannot understand why so many teachers are necessary today. As if it isn't bad enough, they go on increasing more and more, adding to the burdens on the people."

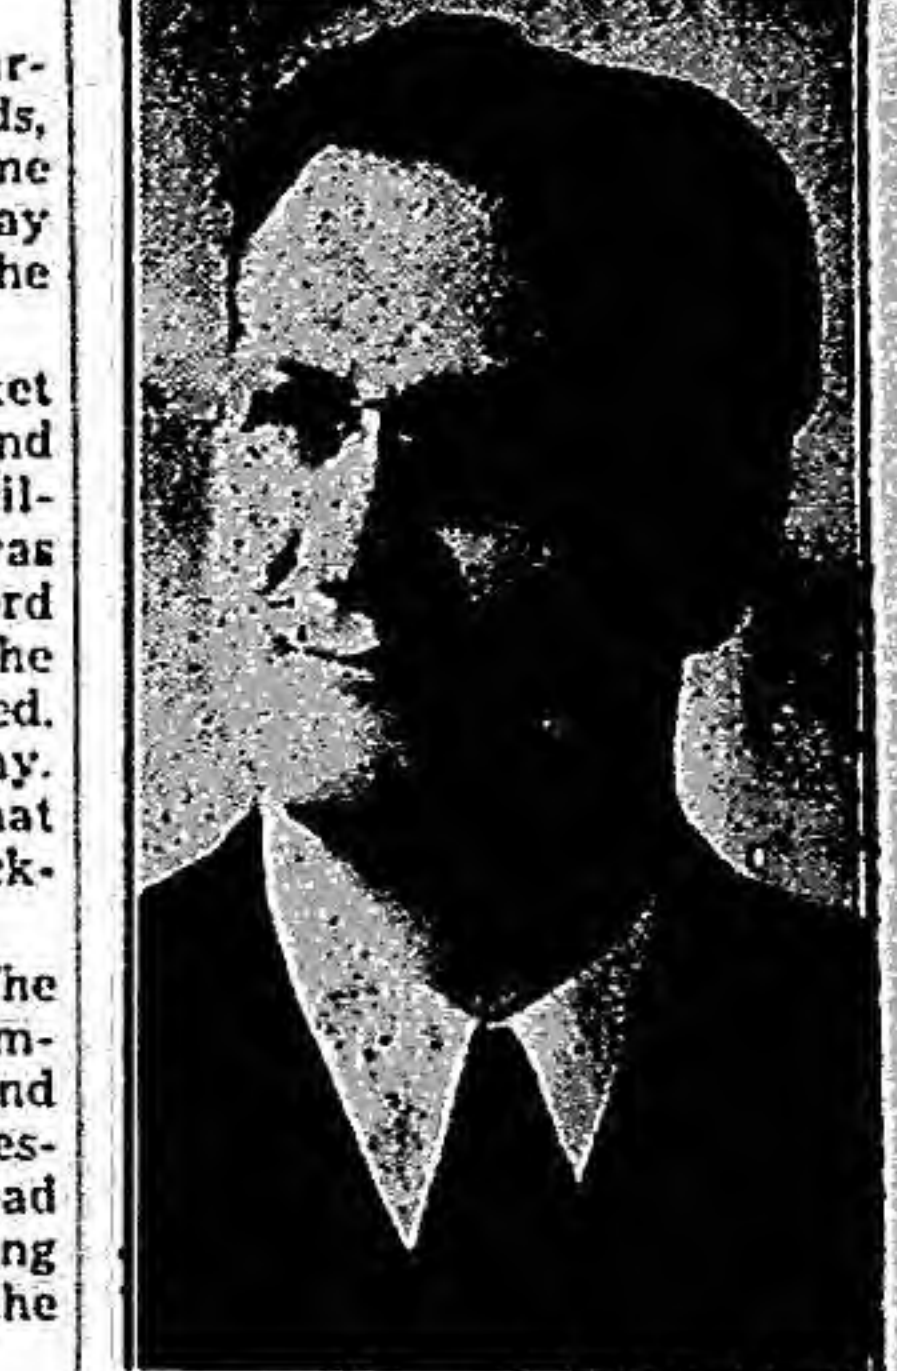

"I remember when Indians came to Newmarket. Oxen were often used. Oxen, as you know, have split hooves. In order to be shod, he was lifted by a belt off his feet and shod while helpless. There was a blacksmith shop near where I lived on Prospect St., and I often saw that process."

Mayor Dr. S. J. Boyd introduced Sir William, who spoke from the platform opposite the grandstand.

To be sure of a good attendance at a farm sale, have the list printed in The Era. The cost is low.

Rev. E. J. Atkinson, of Elmonte, Cal., will be the speaker at the Free Methodist camp meeting, Holland Landing park, July 14-23. All are invited to attend.

Thursday Night Show Amuses In Spite Of Rain

MCLEODS OFFER CLEVER STAGE SHOW ON OPENING NIGHT

Working against the handicap of a wet platform and a bountiful heaven, the McLeod brothers of Queensville brought to Newmarket's old boys' reunion last Thursday evening one of the snappiest stage shows seen in these parts for a long time past. The grandstand was pretty well filled.

The programs on Friday and Saturday were uniformly good. Norman McLeod got the talent together and Fred McLeod was master of ceremonies. They are presenting a totally different show on each occasion, Thursday evening, Friday evening, Saturday afternoon and Saturday evening.

The "Six Co-eds" were smart. They didn't seem to mind a slippery floor, although one girl did take a tumble. They could dance and they did dance.

Then there was Ted Rust, the ventriloquist, and Pat, the dummy dummy you've heard. In spite of their own protestations, this couple are more amusing than the famous Edgar Bergen and Charles McCarthy, for Edgar and Charlie's principal audience don't see them at work. You have to see the ventriloquist and his dummy to really enjoy it. This fellow Rust smiles while the dummy talks. He probably uses television.

Art McColl, the strong man, was strong as Samson. He bit a spike in two. He bent a spike. He lifted a table with his teeth. He lifted a hefty lad with his teeth. He resisted the effort of ten men to pull his arms apart. He was tough and he was strong, and he did a number of other unbelievable feats.

A roller-skating number was cancelled because of the wet platform.

Dorothy Merrill with the accordion delighted everybody. Claire Rouse, the musical hobo, and later as an admiral and Scotsman, was one of the hits of the evening. The young people who had expected to dance liked his tunes, on many different instruments, and kept time with their feet, as consolation for not dancing.

Teachers Harvey And Lawr Open School
For Former Pupils

School opened at the King George school at 9 a.m. last Friday.

Some of the children, away from school for ten, 20, 30, 40, and even 50 and 60 years, were mighty glad to get back.

"Like to be starting all over again," they said.

J. F. Harvey, former teacher, now of Lakefield, near Peterborough, rang the bell to bring the school to order. About 60 were present, and only one room was needed.

Waldon Lawr, K. C., Toronto, another former teacher, helped to preside, and later they were joined by Mrs. R. J. D. Simpson
(Laura Wickett), Toronto, and W. L. Kidd, Newmarket.

A. C. West announced that Miss Ironsides "is not too well and will not be present."

"That strap was rather well worn," Mr. Harvey told Trevor Bogart, Chicago architect, after Mr. Bogart had told a story at his own expense.

Leslie Bogart, Tuxford, Sask., had to introduce himself as "Goosey" Bogart before the crowd all recognized him.

"I had a reputation for severe-ness," said Mr. Harvey. "Still I was soft at heart. I had a great affection for all the children. I am glad to be back."

"Twenty-nine years ago I left Newmarket," said Mr. Lawr.
"There is a tremendous difference in our viewpoint on life then and now. When I came to Newmarket, the Metropolitan railway was the ideal method of travel. It was extended to Sutton. It was thought that it would be good for generations.
The automobile wasn't known then."

Mr. Lawr received a telegram, which he read aloud, from Ernest Bogart, K. C., Toronto alderman, regretting "inability to be in class this morning."

Mr. Lawr commented on how much the late Edgar Bogart would have liked to be present, and on how much he had done for Newmarket high school.

Those answering present were:

downe Ave., Toronto

Recalls That Era Building
Was First Carpentry Job

FRED J. RAPER WAS MEM-BER OF PIONEER NEW-MARKET FAMILY

An "old boy" of such vintage that he fears he will not meet any of his old pals at the reunion is Fred J. Raper of Meaford, who is visiting the scenes of his boy-hood this weekend.

Mr. Raper will be 86 next October. He left Newmarket when he was 17.

He told The Era Thursday how his great-grandfather, Jos. Raper, and his grandfather, Thos. Raper, had come out from Yorkshire, and had started a tailoring shop in Toronto, then known as Muddy York. Later they moved to Newmarket in the very early days, when the village was surrounded by bush, and set up a tailoring shop on Garbutt Hill.

"My father, J. S. Raper, was born in Newmarket," Mr. Raper replied in answer to questions.
"He was a commercial traveller,
a salesman in a store and then he went into the hotel business.
We had a hotel on the west side of Main St. next to the corner of Water and Main, and next to the Royal Canadian Bank building.
Our old building has been gone for many years. My mother, Sarah Bolan, was born in Ireland."

ORILLIA TEAM DEFEATS
SUTTON JUNIORS 22-12

Orillia's well-balanced, fast-stopping squad handed the Sutton junior lacrosse entry their first taste of defeat before a large crowd at Sutton arena on Thursday night, June 29. During the first quarter the teams appeared quite evenly matched, the visitors scoring on three occasions while the home team tallied twice. The remainder of the game saw Orillia shoot out in front with their clever combination plays. The final score was 22-12.

Al Anderson and H. Pivnick were the scorers for Sutton in the opening quarter; Orillia scored three times, score 3-2. In the second quarter L. Mahely assisted "Mutt" Collings on one goal; Collings scoring on another occasion unassisted. J. Brewer tallied twice during this quarter. The score at half-time was Orillia 10, Sutton
6. At the half way mark a second referee was sent in to help handle the play following a melee.

J. Brewer scored the only goal for Sutton during the third quarter on a shot from close in to make the count read 15-7.

In the final quarter Bonilla, of Newmarket, scored twice, once on a penalty shot. Tex Lunan, of

SUTTON
ARMY FRESH AIR CAMP IS OFFICIALLY OPENED

The Salvation Army fresh air
camp was opened on Saturday, July 1, when a flag-raising ceremony took place in front of the main building. A group of 110 boys were on hand for the ceremony as well as some Young People's workers from Toronto who give their services of supervising the various activities of the children.

On Sunday morning the camp was officially opened by the chief seminary, Col. Peacock, and his wife. There were services at 11 a.m. and again at 7 p.m.

During the summer upwards of 800 boys and girls come to this camp which this year, thanks to the Kiwanis club of Toronto, is equipped with a hospital building completely furnished. Captain Langstaff of Grace hospital, Hamilton, is the nurse in charge, Dr.
O. M. Bousie of Sutton is acting camp doctor.

Adjutant Hare is to be in charge of the camp for the season.

Mabely and Scotty Mair tallied once each to make the final score
